

A Window in Your Eyes

A C#m
You came to me in loss
F#m A
For a boy who sank at sea
A F#m
You could not bear the cost
F G
Of all that would not be

But I had something priceless
A moment in your life
A window in your eyes
Through which I could see a light

And even as I held you
To feel the tremble of your grief
I was feeling perfect
Lost in love's release

For I had something priceless
A moment in your life
A window in your eyes
Through which I could see a light

You came to me in sadness
A woman in defeat
You could not bear the madness
Of all that could not be

I know the contradiction
My happiness, your pain
From that moment in our lives
We were not the same again.
