

The Price of Fame

A/G#

A/F#

You wrote the words you wrote the song

A/E

D

Said you'd be famous all along

E

That's what you said.

But the simple truth of rock and roll

Is it breaks your heart and takes your soul

Messes with your head

Chorus

G Dm

You are paying the price of fame.

G Dm

It's such a high price you have to pay.

The stardom road, the screams and tears

Then life starts getting very weird

All around you.

The people hang on every word.

Interpret lines 'til they're absurd,

And they deify you.

The Price of Fame

Chorus

You are paying the price of fame.

It's such a high price you have to pay.

Leaving for another place

Where people do not know your face,

Find an escape.

Wanting some normality

Being who you want to be

Cos that's what it takes.

Chorus

You are paying the price of fame.

It's such a high price you have to pay.

Then one day walking down the street,

The strangest person you could meet

Pulls a gun on you.

A flash of light, a sudden crack

Victim of a street attack

Nothing you could do

Chorus

You paid the price of fame.

It's such a high price you had to pay.
