

A Lesson Learnt

B                    Bsus4            G                    A

Sometimes there's a call takes you away from the things you love

B                    Bsus4            G                    A

Sometimes you risk it all because today is not enough

B                    Bsus4            G                    A

I went sailing, I went sailing far away from you

B                    Bsus4            G                    A

I went sailing, I went sailing so far away from you

Carried by a wind, blows me away so far from here

Swept upon the tide as if today was never there

I am sailing, I am sailing so far away from you

I am sailing, I am sailing so far away from you

C E C E C G A B

Eventually, you learn, upon the sea you're all alone

And the salt upon your face, a reminder you're on your own

So, I am sailing, I am sailing back to you

So, I am sailing, I am sailing back to you

Sometimes you learn to see when you are lost within a storm

What matters most to you is revealed by the light of dawn

No more sailing, no more sailing so far away from you

No more sailing, no more sailing so far away from you